

POOR QUALITY DOCUMENT
SEE [ ] FOLDER FOR HARDCOPY

SECRET

LARIONOV, Viktor (LAWRENCE V.). Larionov, a journalist by profession, was born July 18, 1907 in St. Petersburg, Russia; completed military school in St. Petersburg in 1917; and took part in the Civil War from 1917 to 1920. He lived as an exile in Finland from 1921 to 1923; in Paris from 1923 to 1933; and in Berlin from 1933 to 1945. B-751
Hxag
p. 15-2
Secret

Larionov began his active anti-bolshevik work in Finland in General KOWALSKI's group and continued his activities in Paris. In 1933, at the instigation of the Russian Embassy in Paris, Larionov was requested to leave France. He went to Berlin in 1933 and found employment with the Russian newspaper Novoye Slovo. Because of his opposition to the paper's policy, however, he was fired from the editorial staff in 1941. The following three years he worked as an interpreter for the Ministerium in Berlin. In 1944 he joined the ROK (Russian Liberation Army) and served for a year. After the close of the war, Larionov was officially resettled in Langen, Allgäu, Germany, 12, as a GP, but he actually resided in Munich at Winthierplatz 1. Larionov is a member of Volkunov's group.

Larionov is described as five feet ten inches tall; his eyes are brown; his hair is gray. He is married and has a daughter, Ludmila, who has been working for the French Military authorities since 1946. (HICOG/PA/SUT)

D-758, HICOG Frankfurt, October 13, 1952

1f mar 26 1953

SECRET

DECLASSIFIED AND RELEASED BY
CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY
SOURCE METHOD EXEMPTION 3028
NAZI WAR CRIMES DISCLOSURE ACT
DATE 2007

SECRET

LARIONOV, Vintor (LAWRENCE). Larionov, a journalist by profession, was born July 14, 1897 in St. Petersburg, Russia; completed military school in St. Petersburg in 1917; and took part in the Civil War from 1917 to 1920. He lived as an exile in Finland from 1921 to 1922; in Paris from 1923 to 1933; and in Berlin from 1934 to 1943.

B-758
HICOG

10-13-52

Secret

Larionov began his active anti-bolshevik work in Finland in General KANGAS's group and continued his activities in Paris. In 1933, at the instigation of the Russian Embassy in Paris, Larionov was requested to leave France. He went to Berlin in 1934 and found employment with the Russian newspaper Novoye Slovo. Because of his opposition to the paper's policy, however, he was fired from the editorial staff in 1941. The following three years he worked as an interpreter for the Ostministerium in Berlin. In 1944 he joined the ROA (Russian Liberation Army) and served for a year. After the close of the war, Larionov was officially resettled in Langen, Allgau, Herrenstr. 12, as a GP, but he actually resided in Munich at Winthierplatz 1. Larionov is a member of Selgunov's group.

Larionov is described as five feet ten inches tall; his eyes are brown; his hair is gray. He is married and has a daughter, Ludmila, who has been working for the French Military authorities since 1946. (HICOG/TA/SUT)

D-758, HICOG Frankfurt, October 13, 1952

1f mar 26 1953

SECRET